Remote JavaScript Developer

The position

RemoteMore is helping a large tech company with hiring JavaScript developers for its European and US teams.

The company is one of the major tech companies and works on a big number of internal projects. Multiple JavaScript Developers will be hired and matched to the projects that are best fit for their expertise. The product teams are fully distributed. The company culture is to focus on work delivered and not hours spent.

Good work-life balance is encouraged: 4-week paid holiday per year is part of the benefits package. You will work with senior colleagues with many opportunities to grow professionally. You can work from home or any other place of your choice.

The position is full-time and remote.

Your profile

Coming from a strong technical background, you are expected to have:
- Preferred frameworks: React, Node. Vue and Angular are also relevant.
- Top technical skills for your level of experience - Intermediate or Senior (2+ years of experience)
- The soft skills to work remotely. Strong individual contributor, strong communication skills.
- Passion for remote work. You understand the pros and cons of working remotely.
- Sufficient English language skills to work as part of an international team.
